

Cost per byte, relative to std::mt19937 on the same machine

Lower is faster. Every bar is a ratio measured inside one machine, never a raw cycles/byte: RDTSC counts reference cycles, so the absolute unit does not carry across hosts. The dashed rule is std::mt19937 itself.

